WHAT I KNOW ABOUT VEGETINE.
SOUTH BOSTON, May 9, 1870.
H. R. STEVENS, Esq.:
Dear Sir—I have had considerable experience with the VEGETINE. For dyspepsia, general debility and impure blood, the VEGETINE is superior to anything which I have ever used. I commenced taking VEGETINE about the middle of last Winter, and, after using a few bottles, it entirely cured me of dyspepsia, and my blood never was in so good condition as at the present time. It will afford me pleasure to give any further particulars relative to what I know about this good medicine to any one who will call or address me at my residence, 386 Athens street.
Very respectfully,
MONROE PARKER,
386 Athens street.

Dyspepsia.
SYMPTOMS—Want of appetite, rising of food and wind from the stomach, acidity of the stomach, heartburn, dryness and whiteness of the tongue in the morning, sense of distension in the stomach and bowels, sometimes rumbling and pain; costiveness, which is occasionally interrupted by diarrhœa; paleness of the urine. The mouth is clammy, or has a sour or bitter taste. Other frequent symptoms are waterbrash, palpitation of the heart, headache, and disorders of the senses, as seeing double, etc. There is general debility, languor and aversion to motion; dejection of the spirits, disturbed sleep, and frightful dreams.

Gained Fifteen Pounds of Flesh.
SOUTH BERWICK, ME., Jan. 17, 1872.
H. R. STEVENS, Esq.:
Dear Sir—I have had dyspepsia in its worst form for the last ten years, and have taken hundreds of dollars' worth of medicine without obtaining any relief. In September last I commenced taking the VEGETINE, since which time my health has steadily improved. My food digests well, and I have gained fifteen pounds of flesh. There are several others in this place taking the VEGETINE, all have obtained relief.
Yours, truly,
THOMAS E. MOORE,
Overseer of card room, Portsmouth Co.'s Mills.

Diseases of the Blood.
If VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention.

GOOD EVIDENCE.
CINCINNATI, Nov. 26, 1872.
MR. H. R. STEVENS:
Dear Sir—The two bottles of VEGETINE furnished me by your agent my wife has used with great benefit. For a long time she has been troubled with dizziness and costiveness; these troubles are now entirely removed by the use of VEGETINE.
She was also troubled with dyspepsia and general debility, and has been greatly benefited.
THOMAS GILMORE,
229½ Walnut street.

RELIABLE EVIDENCE.
MR. H. R. STEVENS:
Dear Sir—I will most cheerfully add my testimony to the great number you have already received in favor of your great and good medicine, VEGETINE, for I do not think enough can be said in its praise, for I was troubled over thirty years with that dreadful disease, Catarrh, and had such bad coughing spells that it would seem as though I could never breath any more, and VEGETINE has cured me; and I do feel to thank God all the time that there is so good a medicine as VEGETINE, and I also think it one of the best medicines for coughs and weak sinking feelings at the stomach, and advise everybody to take the VEGETINE, for I can assure them it is one of the best medicines that ever was.
MRS. L. GORE,
Corner Magazine and Walnut Streets, Cambridge, Mass.

APPRECIATION.
CHARLESTOWN, Mass., March 19, 1869.
H. R. STEVENS:
This is to certify that I have used your "Blood Preparation" (VEGETINE) in my family for several years and think, for scrofula or Cankerous Humors or Rheumatic affections, it cannot be excelled; and as a blood purifier and spring medicine it is the best thing I ever used; and I have used almost everything. I can cheerfully recommend it to any one in need of such medicine.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. A. A. DINSMORE,
19 Russell street.

Two Wife-Killers.

A Story for All Husbands to Read.

BY H. V. OSBORN.

(Concluded.)

"In the same box!" screamed Townsley. "What do you mean, you wall-eyed scamp? I'm a respectable citizen. I'm a trustee of the First National Bank. I'm a member of —"

Krieff's bitter laugh broke off the sentence. It was not a merry laugh, but one that described agony better than words.

"You can't come any such dodges in this day!" he retorted. "You are what you are, what you have been, now—not what you have passed for among your fellow-men. A man who has abused his wife as you have—a man who in cold blood has killed the mother of his children—hangin' ain't enough for him; it ain't enough," said Krieff, mockingly. "Come on here with me, then, an' take yer deserts, like the ghost of a man should. Krieff and Townsley, wife-killers, eh? Yes I've been loiterin' around here all day. Had news I'd have a companion in misery if I'd wait a little. I've died once of suspense; an' now I'm likely to suffer from it again, if you don't kick the bucket pretty lively."

Townsley's face became purple with passion while this loquacious soul delivered his speech; but just as he was about to cry out with rage, he was brought back to a realizing sense of his own condition by his soul, which was now making desperate efforts to free itself. White succeeded the purple in Townsley's face, blood oozed from his mouth, and a dead faint made his head rest heavily on old Mother Earth.

"A pretty clever dodge, this dead faint of yours," continued Krieff, coming down from the fence and seating himself tailor-fashioned beside the still, white, bruised body of Townsley. "But I'm bound to wait for you, and I'm bound to have out my say. Your body is as cold this minute as that shell of mine in the medical college; but here's your soul, turned listener, and here's what I've got to say:

"I died like a man, you've heard," said Krieff, gently, dropping his voice, and throwing aside his rough manner in his intense earnestness. "Do you know why?" Because I was dead to begin with. It wasn't the gallows that killed Krieff, though that institution freed his soul. Krieff died of a broken heart, an' died years ago. Who took his life? A woman. Who broke my heart? My wife. Do you think I didn't love that little armful of a Lucy when I married her? I loved her from the ribbon in her hair to the bow on her slipper. I worshipped her.

"I used to know somethin' of God in those days. Used to think I could feel him near, holdin' an' keepin' Lucy an' me in the hollow of his hand. But when Lucy crept away from him, I let go too, and clung to her. When a man loves a woman as I loved her she can lead him anywhere. He will follow her to Heaven, or she may drag him to Hell, if she pleases. That is where Lucy dragged me. She didn't mean to, I suppose. She didn't know it, most likely. But there ain't nothin' else for a man, when a woman he loves an' would die for stops givin' love back.

"You see I lost my money, an' Lucy went with that. I couldn't believe she'd married me for that little property of mine, till she witted me of deceiving her and buyin' her love with counterfeit bills. This from that little armful that I loved so! But it didn't crush me. 'We'll have gold in their place, Lucy,' says I; 'you shall be a rich man's wife yet, darlin', only love me, I havn't got the heart to work without that.' But work grew scarce instead of plenty, an' I was in such a rush to make money for her I lost all I gained in hurryin' from one promisin' chance to another.

"'Other men make money, why can't you?' she would say. And I would say it over an' over to myself: 'Other men make money, why can't you?' After that, when I got little sums, I speculated with 'em in a poor man's small way. I gambled at the nearest grog shop, to win a fortune for Lucy. But she sneered at me when I lost, an' when I got ahead would forget the look of love an' encouragement I craved.

"I had no peace at home—no comfort. She taught the little 'un to make fun of me, its father. 'Oh, Lucy!' said I one day, 'you're a killin' me—an' I love you so!' 'You can't die any too soon,' said she; 'an' your love's all wasted.' But I couldn't believe she meant it, 'cause 'twas Lucy as said it. Folks called me hen-pecked because in my love I threw myself down for her to walk upon to make the life-journey easier.

"My heart didn't break, though, till she got to lovin' Tom—a good-for-nothin,' worthless scamp—an' then all hope died within me. I took to drinkin' then. I used to come home pretty drunk sometimes, but I never laid a finger on Lucy. I always crept off alone till I was myself again.

"All except that one night, when I had crept away an' come back again sudden, my brain was all on fire—all except that one night when I found her sittin' close to Tom; saw her givin' him handsful of touches on face and throat. (I would have died years before that to have had one lovin' touch from Lucy's finger tips); saw her kissin' and kissed; heard her talkin' to him in tones which woke up all the memories of my happy long-ago, an' croonin' to him of the bright future comin' when a drunkard's grave should have swallowed up John Krieff, an' she an' Tom Porter should be in their own cozy home. Tom kissed her after that, an' called her his angel.

"They didn't see me till I come out to the light with the pistol.

"'Tom,' says I, crazed with liquor and passion, 'your angel in heaven, perhaps, but never here!'

"I fired then, an' Lucy fell dead."

"All this was indistinct while in the body, but it comes back fresh and clear to me now. I could have saved my life by dishonorin' Lucy's name; but, even if I hadn't dared to keep her white to the world, yet would I have kept still. I had no desire to plead my case. I was dead. I was heart broken, an' longed to get out of the world.

"There's some one else that's heartbroken in this world. There's a little woman down in a dark cellar sproutin' potatoes this minute, whose husband has killed her. Her soul isn't free yet but she's dead just the same. That woman is Townsley's wife. Your soul is a-hearin' of me, if you ain't," pursued Krieff, touching the cold white face, and straightening Townsley's fingers. "You didn't shoot your wife with a pistol, but you let her die a slow, lingerin' terrible death! You killed her in a cruel, heartless manner. You starved her. Do you think if I'd had a wife like yours, Townsley, I'd have been the man I was?"

Tears filled Krieff's eyes.

"You were a poorer man when your Janie married you—poorer than I ever was. Your social position was beneath hers. You were an awkward, homely, verdant youth in those days. Folks said if ever there was a woman as married for love, it was Janie Jordan.

"You began life humbly. Janie was delicate reared an' dainty; but to do without for Philip was no hardship. When you hit success she kissed you. When you missed

THE DAY.

Moody and Sankey arrived in New York on Saturday.

New Haven has an eight year old incendiary who has been caught setting fire to a church in two places.

Good peaches sold at one dollar a crate in New York on Saturday, but it is said the very best brought $2.50.

The receipts of the government during the past year were $288,000,051, and the expenditures $274,623,892.

Judge J. B. McKean, late chief justice of Utah, has been chosen a lay delegate the next Methodist general conference.

Governor Lippitt has been invited to attend the Methodist clambake at Little Compton on Wednesday of this week.

Heavy rain storms continue to flood the country doing great damage to crops railroads, bridges, etc., in almost all sections. New Jersey is among the latest sufferers.

More than 10,000 people witnessed the hanging of a man named Webb at Knoxville, Tenn., on Friday. It must be rare sport that calls so many people together.

The New York Mercury is responsible for a story of great frauds perpetrated by the directors of the Northern Pacific Railroad. It says also that the sale of the road under a decree of foreclosure was the greatest fraud ever perpetrated in this country.

The army worm seems, in most places, to be retiring and resting on his laurels. We hear but little of its ravages just now. The best remedy that has been suggested for this and similar pests is more birds. Who will bring on the English sparrows?

Yesterday was a day of great interest at the camp-meetings at Old Orchard, the Vineyard and Yarmouth. The Baptists opened a camp-meeting at Martha's Vineyard. About 4000 people went up to the Twin Mountain House to hear Mr. Beecher preach.

The dreaded tramps have begun their murderous work in Rhode Island. Three of them went into a hotel at Manton, in the town of Johnston, and asked for food which was liberally supplied. They then demanded whiskey, which was refused, when one of them drew a revolver and fired at Mr. Phillips, shooting him through the hand and inflicting a severe wound. They then fled and though pursued have not yet been captured. It is evident that vigorous measures are called for in dealing with this class and unless something can be done speedily to suppress the nuisance the country will overrun with these brigands.

ABOUT A VERY BAD INDIVIDUAL.

However generally the Christian church has believed in the personal existence of the devil it has not usually required its members to declare their belief in him in connection with their belief in the holy catholic church, the communion of saints and the forgiveness of sins. On the contrary he is usually classed with those impersonal affairs the world and the flesh. In the Christianity of the middle ages the devil played a prominent part, but he was credited with a ubiquity that cast a shadow of doubt on his personality. The devil with horns, hoof and a spiked tail was a convenient thing with which to threaten the ignorant, and it was then, as it still is, more comfortable to think that our evil impulses come from some exterior source than that they spring from our own hearts.

For these and other reasons the fallen angels were so important in ecclesiastical affairs that the dealer in antique books hardly made a bull when he advertised a quantity of books containing pictures of saints, monks, devils and other dignitaries of the church. The monks would hardly have succeeded in becoming saints but for resistance offered by the third class, just as a steamer would not reach its port of destination but for the resistance to its wheels offered by the water. It was on stepping stones, not of their dead selves, but of depraved spirits that these holy men climbed up to the aureole. St. Dunstan won his spurs,—no, his canonization,—by the firm application of red-hot pincers to the devil's nose, and even Martin Luther threw an inkstand at that malevolent being.

In a recent number of Scribner's Magazine Dr. Holland has called attention to the New England veneration for the devil. It certainly is rather singular that to take his name in vain is considered only less wicked than to violate the third commandment, while to speak lightly of his abode is held to be downright profanity, though the name of the other spiritual world may be introduced into ordinary conversation, or even used as an interjection without shocking our religious sensibilities. How far our reverence for the devil is due to a fear of offending his Satanic majesty and provoking his powerful hostility it is impossible to say.

But it begins to look as if a member of the Anglican church is today bound to believe the personality of the devil as fully as the trinity, or the resurrection. The Rev. Mr. Cooke of England refused the communion to a Mr. Jenkins as a "common and notorious defamer of the book of common prayer," because he had omitted "all passages concerning Satan, or evil spirits" from a book entitled "Selection from the Old and New Testaments." Jenkins appealed to the bishop, who declined to decide the question. In the meantime, the minister offered Mrs. Jenkins to administer to her husband the most comfortable ordinance of the Lord's supper on condition that he would admit "his belief in the devil," but he declined.

The case was carried to the arches court, the dean of which, Sir R. Phillimore, decided that Jenkins was not only "a defamer of the book of common prayer," but was also a "criminous layman," and even an "evil-liver," and that until he accepts the personality of the devil he can not receive the sacrament. Mr. Jenkins has appealed to the judicial committee of the privy council.

However plainly the personality of the devil may be taught in the Scriptures and by the church it is not prescribed in any New Testament creed, but there is a breadth about the apostolic tests of discipleship that has never been satisfactory to the church. Any Biblical creed would admit many persons that each church wishes to keep out of its bounds. Consequently, human ingenuity has greatly improved on the Bible, and each denomination has declared some particular point to be absolutely thus or so, when our Lord and the apostles singularly considered the point of too small importance to be worth detailed discussion and description.

The longer a creed is the narrower it is, and its believers are inversely as its articles. Hence we have an infallible method for getting a small and intensely orthodox church. High social circles are kept aristocratically and conveniently small by the number of requirements for admission, and the same method can be applied with equal success to the church. If a belief not only the personality of the devil but in certain of his personal characteristics are made sine qua nons of church membership we shall at once have a church, small, it is true, but one that cannot be charged with truckling to the skeptical spirit of the day, and one whose members are singularly agreed in their views, and all highly orthodox.

But the most remarkable feature of the whole case is that any man should be found who doesn't believe in the devil. That this man is an Englishman is no small compliment to our mother country. In America we all believe in the devil. He speculates in gold in New York and in wheat in Chicago, he represents several districts in Congress, he gets up canal rings, and commits Ku Klux outrages, and not unfrequently he lives within a block of us.

A man who doesn't believe in the devil must have a painfully low opinion of human nature. He must be the skeptical converse of the credulous men who, according to Napoleon, were capable of believing everything except the Bible. Such a man is constitutionally incredulous. His mind is so thoroughly unbalanced that he is devoid of the power of belief, and therefore it wouldn't be worth while to administer the ordinances of religion to him at all.

CHURCH DEBTS.

It is admitted that few churches, except the Roman Catholic, have been recently constructed in Boston without incurring liabilities far from justifiable; and that these have proved to be enormous burdens upon the congregations, restricting all holy influences, and too often causing ill feeling between pastor and people. When these vast and elegant structures are built and the debt incurred, the necessity follows that they must be crowded with rich people, who can buy pews at great prices, pay high taxes, and give largely towards the liquidation of the debt. Hence the necessity for a pastor who can draw! The pulpit is put upon the same standing as the stage of a theatre, and whether actor or preacher, he is the best man who can in the quickest time and the most continuously fill his house! This wretched habit (for it seems to have become such in large cities) of getting into debt seems to stand by itself amongst the unrighteous things of the world which is permitted to increase without suitable reprehension. A merchant, a bank or any public institution gets into debt, and must immediately fail. A poor man or woman goes beyond his or her means, and meets the consequences in public disdain or odium; but churches are permitted to be built, and to linger on under a load of debt and unfulfilled promises to pay. We do not see any heeded warning taken from previous precedent. In fact, incumbents of parishes, even, allow them so to be built, knowing all the time how far the excess of expenditure will exceed the means of payment. Where is the clergyman who will have the courage to say to any building committee, "Gentlemen, I will preach for you if you will build the church without a debt. If you go one cent beyond your means I shall not be your pastor!"

In Brooklyn, N. Y., the so-called "Iron Tabernacle church," as we learn from a recent letter to the Christian Register, has two mortgages covering its cost, on the second of which interest has ceased to be paid. An Episcopal church near by, built "to evangelize the masses," is even in a worse financial condition, whilst to attend some of the Unitarian churches costs so much money that people begin to find they cannot afford to pay it now that the general panic and depressed condition of things has so scanted their incomes. The consequence of this ill-judged church building is acknowledged to be felt; but yet it unscrupulously goes on, and the result is most melancholy. It is seen in the dismission of old and venerated pastors, discontented and divided congregations, empty pews, and threatened sales and foreclosures. Nay, worse, it is both dishonest and unlawful and has an unwholesome effect upon communities in general. Why should boasting Christians go behind the Jews in integrity! We hear that the "great praise of the Jewish synagogues is that, splendid as they are, they are usually paid for." This applies to New York, but the application to the Christian churches of Boston is not the less manifest, as it is certainly not less mortifying.—[Boston Transcript.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

AUGUST FLOWER.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint.

More than seventy five per cent. of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects such as Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heart-burn, Water-brash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the Stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to the Drug Store of James H. Taylor and get a 75 cent bottle, or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you.

A SHOE FLIGHT.—On Saturday afternoon three sailors went into the shoe store of J. M & G. H. Popple, and one of them hid a pair of shoes and two pairs of slippers under his coat, but as soon as they left the loss was discovered by a clerk and Mr. Popple went after them and brought them back. The companions of the thief tried to settle the matter in some way, but their negotiations resulted in the arrest by Officer Steel and the incarceration in the station house of all three. The two who didn't steal were released yesterday, and the thief, Jesse Surles, will be arraigned before the justice court tomorrow.

MR. GRAY'S FUNERAL.

The funeral rites of George Griswold Gray were performed yesterday afternoon at his late residence on Bellevue avenue in the presence of a large number of persons, chiefly members of those social circles which while living he had adorned. The remains, which presented a very natural appearance, were placed in a casket inscribed simply

GEORGE GRISWOLD GRAY,
December 15, 1830.
August 13, 1875.

The very solemn and beautiful burial service of the Episcopal church was conducted by the Rev. A. G. Mercer, D. D. The singing was rendered by a selected choir of unusual excellence. The first selection sung was "Abide with me; fast fades the even tide." The closing selection was "Art thou weary? Art thou languid?"

The pall bearers were Henry S. Fearing, Edwin A. Post, Philip Schuyler, M. Howland, E. T. Snelling, A. O. Monson, J. A. G. Foster, S. H. Whitwell, E. M. Neill and G. Redmond.

The remains were followed by a large number of friends of the deceased and his surviving relatives to the Island cemetery, where the body was placed in a vault whence it will be removed to Greenwood cemetery, New York, next Fall.

The funeral was noticeable not only for the very large number of persons attending it, but for the abundance and elegance of the floral tributes to Mr. Gray's memory. There were wreaths, crowns, crosses and anchors of rare and beautiful flowers. There was a broken shaft composed entirely of white pinks with a border of roses and smilax at the base. Another piece was a pillow, two feet long, consisting exclusively of white roses.

VETERANS' EXCURSION.—Members of the Artillery Veteran Association will make an excursion to Oakland Beach tomorrow in the large and comodious steamer Norwalk. Prescott Post, G. A. R., of Providence will also make an excursion from that city. The attractions at the beach are varied. At 2 o'clock there will be target practice, at 3 o'clock a boat race by members of Prescott Post, and at 4 P. M., a burlesque dress parade and review of the Long Meadow Fusileers and Chepachet Rangers, in full costume.

In addition to all this the Red Skins in camp at the place will go through with their representations of life in the wilderness, rowing in bark canoes, etc. The steamer arrives here this afternoon and will lie at Sayer's wharf for the inspection of the public. The committee will spare no pains for the comfort and pleasure of the excursionists. The Redwood band will furnish the music. The Veterans will have private tables at twelve o'clock.

THE NEW YORK YACHT CLUB.

The New York yacht squadron today sail for vice Commodore W. T. Garner's prizes,—two for schooners and two for sloops,—over the usual Block Island course. The start was a flying one and the time of the yachts was taken as they crossed an imaginary line drawn from Fort Adams to the Dumplins. The hour of starting was announced by a signal from the flag ship and fifteen minutes the fleet started.

THE ENTRIES.

The following is a list of the entries:—

SCHOONERS.

Names.	Owners.
Alarm	Com. G. L. Kingsland.
Restless	Rear Com. S. N. Kane.
Rambler	W. H. Thomas.
Eva	E. Burd Grubb.

Names.	Owners.
Windward	W. T. Willoughby.
Vision	J. J. Alexandre.
Vindex	Robert Center.
Addie Voorhis	Cornelius Roosevelt.
Genia	Shephard Homans.

It must be gratifying to Commodore Kingsland to see so many yachts entered as it shows that the yachtmen are taking an interest in the races and desire to make them as lively as possible. The race today will be sailed according to the rules of the New York Yacht Club and must be made in eight hours. Several of the best boats are barred from competition because they did not go with the fleet to the Vineyard but they have nevertheless accompanied the racers today and some interesting sport may be expected.

CRIME IN NEW ENGLAND.

But it is not alone imported criminality that calls for profound and earnest consideration in New Hampshire. Along with the news of this shocking murder, that may have been the work of "tramps," or of more business-like criminals from the cities, comes the announcement of a poisoning case at Sandwich, N. H., that can be attributed only to local social demoralization. Heaven forbid that our sister state, one of the representative New England states, should be judged of by the crime perpetrated within her borders. But it is impossible to ignore the significance of the constant recurrence of "horrors" in the newspapers dating from rural neighborhoods almost untainted by foreign elements in the population, and held by the direct descendants of the founders of the old homesteads,—such spots as those to which innocence and peace are feigned by poets to have fled for their abiding places from the wickedness of great cities. Any reader of the newspapers can readily recall more atrocious and revolting instances than will bear to be mentioned.

Were there so many tares among the good seed sown by our godly progenitors? Does the soil of New England, with all its heretofore famous fertility in what is best and greatest in character, nourish a hidden element whence flourishes as well a deadly moral upas tree? Or is it the result of the draining off of the better and healthier products of the population for the benefit of newer communities, that has left a residuum with the unfavored and unwholesome components in undue proportion? Is it the reaction and backsliding from earlier religious rigors, is it neglect of public education, is it intermarrying of relations, is it loss of material prosperity, discouragement at the paucity of the rewards of farm toil, and discontent with the hardness and barrenness of life? Is it the lightness of the control and demands of our religious, political and social institutions upon individuals? Is it that we are in a transition between old and new beliefs, occupations and conditions? It would be easy to analyze the career of such a monster as Evans, or the development of this newly discovered wretch Varenus York, and trace the influences which establish such morbid outgrowths of Yankee stock in their evil principles and practices. Would not the comparative study of a collection of such cases throw some light upon what is getting to be a pressing social problem? *—[Boston Transcript.

"Why do you not take wine with your dinner, Minnie?" asked a gentleman.

"'Cause I doesn't like it."

"But take a little then, my child, for your stomach's sake," he urged.

"I ain't dot no tommik's ache!" indignantly responded the little miss in the most emphatic manner.

☞W. H. Otis is coming.

A Triumph over Humbug.

The constant gain in popularity of the national remedy and preventive, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and the rapid decline of the fermented and nauseous rubbish feebly bolstered up by a false temperance cry, exemplifies a grand triumph of genuine merit over rampant humbug, at which honest folks rejoice. And well they may; for each accession of popularity to a remedy which cures and prevents intermittent and remittent fevers, dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint, urinary troubles, uterine weakness and general debility, widens the field of its beneficent operations and is a direct gain to humanity, while every falling off in public favor of a pernicious compound, powerless for good but powerful for evil, is a blessing quite as unmistakable, but for a reason very different. Let humbug for once hide its diminished head. Would it were always as unsuccessful as in the present instance.

The difficulty hitherto experienced in eradicating Bright's disease, dropsy, kidney, bladder and glandular maladies, female irregularities, diabetes, gravel, pain in the back and loins, general nervous prostration, retention and incontinence of urine and complaints of the urino-genital organs is entirely removed. Hunt's Remedy promptly dispels any of the above afflictions and the blessings of health will be conferred on all those that partake of this medicine. aug11-nj-1w

MANY who are suffering from the effects of the warm weather and are debilitated, are advised by physicians to take moderate amounts of whisky two or three times during the day. In a little while those who adopt this advice frequently increase the number of "drinks," and in time become confirmed inebriates. A beverage which will not create thirst for intoxicating liquors, and which is intended especially for the benefit of debilitated persons, whether at home or abroad, is Dr. Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic. Containing the juices of many medicinal herbs, this preparation does not create an appetite for the intoxicating cup. The nourishing and the life-supporting properties of many valuable natural productions contained in it and well known to medical men have a most strengthening influence. A single bottle of the Tonic will demonstrate its valuable qualities. For debility arising from sickness, over exertion or from any cause whatever, a wineglassful of Sea Weed Tonic taken after meals will strengthen the stomach and create an appetite for wholesome food. To all who are about leaving their homes, we desire to say that the excellent effects of Dr. Schenck's seasonable remedies, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills, are particularly evident when taken by those who are injuriously affected by a change of water and diet. No person should leave home without taking a supply of these safeguards along. For sale by all druggists. aug6-1m

Adams Academy,
QUINCY, MASS.

HON. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS, LL.D., Chairman of the Board of Managers. WILLIAM REYNOLDS DIMMOCK, LL.D., Master, assisted by thoroughly competent teachers and by special instructors in French, German and Drawing. The third year of this academy will begin on WEDNESDAY, September 8. The design of the academy is to prepare boys in the most thorough manner for the best American Colleges. There is a preparatory class for younger boys and for those who are deficient in their English and elementary studies. The large boarding house of the Academy is under the charge of the Master, who, with his assistants, resides in it.

The accommodations by the Old Colony Railroad are such that many boys from Boston and the adjacent towns avail themselves of the advantages of the Academy, while residing at their own homes. They leave Boston fifteen minutes before nine in the morning and reach there on their return a few minutes past two o'clock. Some dine at the Academy boarding house, spend the afternoon in the country with the boys, and return by an early train. Car fare is but nine dollars for three months.

Tuition—One hundred dollars per year. For catalogues address the Master. The number of pupils is necessarily limited, and early application should be made. jy31-1m

GENERAL NEWS.

FROM WASHINGTON.

A Warning to Greedy Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.

The following named postmasters have been removed for improper dispositions of postage stamps and unjustly increasing their salaries thereby; James Hodgdon, Embden Centre, Somerset county, Me.; Edward D. Gilbert, Higganum, Middlesex county, Ct., and thirty-six others.

The Northwestern Lands Again in Market.

The President has signed a proclamation terminating the withdrawal of lands awarded to the United States by the emperor of Germany acting as umpire under the treaty of Washington. The lands in question are those on the northwestern frontier, and includes San Juan Island. The withdrawal was to allow persons claiming to be owners under the joint occupancy to present their claims.

Government Accounts.

The following is an official statement from the Treasury department of the government receips and expenditures by warrants for the year ending June 30, 1875: Net receipts from customs, $157,167,722 35; interital revenue, $110,007,493 58; sales of public sources, $19,411,195; total receips, $288,000,051 10. Not expenditures for civil and miscellaneous, $71,070,702 98: War department, $41,120,645 98; Navy department, $21,497,626 27; Indians and pensions, $37,840,873 04; interest on public debt, $103,093,541 57; total ordinary expenditures, $274,623,392 82.

FROM NEW YORK.

Rumored Change in the Secretaryship of the Interior.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.

A Washington despatch to the Herald says the President has offered the secretaryship of the interior to J. Russell Jones, with the request to punish all Indian frauds.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE CROPS.

The Reports of Damage by Storm in the Northwest Exaggerated.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.

Advices from more than 150 points in the northwest show that in Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Ohio and Dakota, the wheat crop of 1875 will be in the aggregate 65 per cent. oats 79 per cent. and corn 91 per cent. of an average crop. Specials from the northwest, where the storms have done the greatest amount of damage, shows that the first reports were considerably exaggerated, and that though the yield the of crops will not be great, it will be at least half of an average in the worst injured sections.

THE FALL RIVER MILLS AND THE STRIKING OPERATIVES

The Sentiment of the Strikers—Saturday's Vote.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug., 15.

The cotton mill operatives "vacation" continues, and the situation is unchanged except that there are a great number of needy ones among the strikers. Hundreds of them make their appearance daily at the office of the overseer of the poor requesting aid. Of course, no one is allowed to starve but assistance is delt out to them very meagerly. Most of them to declare to the overseer of the poor their desire to go to work, and that it was not their wish to stop at all last Thursday, only one out of five hundred, who requested aid, showed a determination to continue her "vacation" the full thirty days. She was allowed to seek aid elsewhere.

The balloting yesterday by the help to decide whether they should go to work next Tuesday if they were allowed to do so by the manufacturers, or continue the strike for the full thirty days, was a great farce and is thought to be simply an advertisement for Harriman the second-hand furniture man, at whose shop the polls were located. Out of the fifteen thousand operatives, on strike, only between three and four thousand voted—2520 voted to remain on strike and 1267 to go to work next Tuesday. In the first place a great many of the mill managers are at Saratoga, in the country or at the seaside enjoying the vacation given them by the help, and a number of the mills have taken the opportunity to repair their machinery. In the next place it is extremely doubtful if the mills would be started up before the first of September even if all of the managers were in town; and there is a possibility of their not starting up even then.

BRAVERY IN GOOD AND BAD CAUSES.—We heartily hope that the centennial year will bind more closely, with better understanding and with more mutual respect, the lately warring sections of the country. But we hope quite as earnestly that there will be no such moral confusion as would be implied in placing the flag of American slavery, because it was bravely defended, by the flag of American liberty. We do not honor the Boston Puritans who hung the Quakeress Mary Dyer equally with Roger Williams, because both may have been equally sincere, nor the duke of Alva equally with William of Orange because both may have been equally brave and constant soldiers. It should never be forgotten that the sincerity of the executioners of Mary Dyer was hostile to religious freedom, while that of Roger Williams was consecrated to soul liberty; the soldierly courage of Alva was devoted to enslaving a people, and that of William to securing their freedom and independence. Bravery is admirable, but bravery for a just and noble cause alone has the perpetual benediction of the human heart.—[Harper's Weekly.

The New Remington Sewing Machine

FAR EXCELS all other machines ever brought before the public. It is the latest machine and has later improvements than any other. It is the lightest running machine. It is the fastest running machine. It is the finest working machine. It is the easiest operated machine. It is threaded without passing thread through holes. It is the simplest constructed machine. It has no cog wheels or gear to break, or hard running cams to get out of order. It is always in order and always ready. It is an invention of J. T. Jones, of the Remington Company, who is known in the trade throughout the world as one of the pioneer inventors of the Practical Sewing Machine. After 30 years of experience he offers the Remington as the Perfect Sewing Machine.

Every lady who is about to purchase a sewing machine, should not fail to try the NEW REMINGTON.

Every other kind of machine is taken in exchange for the Remington, and no person who has ever used a Remington would exchange it for any other. Call and see it at Sewing Machines.

EVERY

FLORENCE

SEWING MACHINE

HAS THE

Reversible Feed,

AND some of its advantages are, that, by a simple turn of the thumb piece it will neatly, quickly and securely fasten the ends of seams, or stay any part of the seam, without stopping the machine. It will darn a rent neatly and strongly. These features are peculiar to the Florence; and the Reversible Feed is just as simple as the direct or positive feed. jy23

ERASTUS P. ALLAN,

Having completed the repairs and alterations, has returned to his old stand

Nos. 63 & 65 Thames St.

He invites the attention of his friends and patrons to his large and carefully selected stock of China, Glass, Earthenware, Fancy Goods, and all articles connected with his line of business.

it, she kissed you just the same. You had a little heaven of it for three or four years. Then continued prosperity made you selfish. You got so far ahead you couldn't stop to come back for the love an' the kisses of Janie. Sometimes she followed you, tryin' to walk abreast with you, an' tryin' to keep up the dear old times. But she wasn't welcome—she was in the way. You couldn't bother to be foolin' an' kissin' all the time. She must settle down an' be sensible. 'Doin' without for Philip' had been her sweet delight in the dark days; but now, when the golden light shone around, your mean spirit kept her 'doin' without' just the same, that you might win more lands an' stock to put between your heart an' hers.

"Then more money came. Money represents power. You began to lord it over your fellowmen, and at home you made a slave of the woman who adored you. You ordered her about as you would your meanest servant, an' gradually forced her to take that position.

"You never saved her a step or a burden's weight. You let her tug away, toil away, die away, from morning till night. An' you killed her. But overworked though she was, that wasn't what killed her. She lost her round, red cheeks, an' her dainty shaped hands drudgin' for you. She lost her gold, her bright gold hair, toilin' an' growin' old for you. She lost grace of form an' grace of spirit draggin' an' slavin' for you. But that ain't what killed her. It was neglect that broke her heart. A husband's neglect. You starved her to death. Townsley's wife died from a lack of appreciation, lack of love in the man who promised to love, honor, and cherish her his whole life long. You wouldn't treat a dumb brute as you treated your wife. You stop and pat Bruno's head an' call him 'good fellow,' You pick up the cat an' let her sit on your knee. You pet your horses an' feed them sugar, but you never look back at the women whose heart, bound up in you, followed you longingly. You never stopped to caress the tired head of your little wife. It took too much time to say: 'Darlin,' I love you.' An' as for drawin' her down on your knee an' kissin' the cheek-hollows plump an' the white lips red—you couldn't bother. An' you got to be the richest farmer in Tuckahoe county; but you broke your wife's heart.

"We're in the same box, you an' I—Townsley an' Krieff—wife killers, Only I hold that I was the most merciful of the two; for while beside myself with passion an' rum, I killed my wife in an instant's time. You killed your Janie by slow torture—the most cold-blooded method I know of—killed her while she crept on hands and knees to serve you. 'May God have mercy on your soul; I haven't even pity for you.' I shall get my deserts, I know; an' I am bound to stick by an' see you get yours."

"Janie," murmured Townsley, his whole body quivering. "Janie,' whispered Townsley, opening his dull, heavy eyes. "Oh! Janie—Janie—Janie!"

"T'wont do any good," exclaimed Krieff, "to shout after her. She can't save you You've got to come along with me. Yes, I know remorse sits heavy on you now, but you can't skulk behind that at this late day; and all the Janies in the land can't help you now."

But as time passed on Townsley at last became conscious of a third person's presence—a presence which soothed him, which came between him and that waiting soul. He felt cool hands upon his burning head, and a soft, smooth cheek pressed close to his. He heard himself called all manner of dear names, and once or twice felt hot tears dash over his face, to be quickly brushed away. Best of all, he felt that through the power of love some one was drawing his soul back into his body, and he knew that this some one was his wife. Days and days and days it took; but it was a new soul that went back, and a new body that covered it. Townsley was a changed man through and through.

"There ain't a man in Tuckahoe county," says Farmer Ricketts, "so choice of his wife as Mr. Townsley. He can't do enough for her. He'd let her walk on him an' welcome, if she wanted. Beats all nature!"

And if he means human nature, he is right. But Ricketts doesn't know, as you and I do, how near Townsley came to being one of two wife-killers.—[Independent.

PALACE HOTEL,

SAN FRANCISCO.

Summer and Winter Resort.

The thermometer at San Francisco ranging in Summer from 60 to 70 degrees Fahrenheit, and in Winter from 50 to 60, the climate is of the most salubrious character, giving to travellers a most cheering welcome at any season that they may arrive.

PALACE HOTEL,

350x275 feet, covers 96,250 square feet of land, making it the Most Spacious Hotel in the World.

Its commodious and elegant character is assured by the fact that, in the inception of the enterprise, the owners, WILLIAM C. RALSTON, Esq., and Hon. WILLIAM SHARON, instructed their architect to visit the hotels of the principal cities in the United States and Europe for the express purpose of including in the plans of the PALACE all existing improvements, and such additional ones that experience and observation had suggested, they desiring it to be a Palatial Hotel in Every Respect.

The location is THE BEST IN THE CITY, being at the junction of the Main Thoroughfares.

The PALACE is seven stories high, most substantially built, and Fire-proof in all Essential Points.

The lower story is 25 feet high, the others 14 and 16 feet.

All walls and petitions throughout the Hotel are built of Stone and Brick, laid in Cement, and banded together with Iron.

There are Three Inner Courts, the centre one being 144x84, covered with glass at height of building, with Carriage and Promenade Entrance from the street of 44 feet width, and having a Circle Driveway of 54 feet diameter, that being surrounded by a marble-tiled Promenade and a

Tropical Garden,

Having Exotic Plants,

Statuary, and Fountains.

Fronting the Centre Court from every story, and upon its entire boundary, there are

Verandas, 12 feet wide, Illuminated by Standard Lights at each pillared section, and from the Garden Level to the Veranda of the second floor is an Elegant Staircase, ornamented at its various landings with Statuary and Flower Vases. Midway up this staircase is the approach to the Music Pavilion for the use of the Instrumental Band

(to be exclusively employed in the Hotel.)

From the Centre Court is the Main Entrance to the Hotel Office, that room being 55x55, as also entrance to

Breakfast Room, 110x55;

Dining-Room, 150x55;

Ball and Music Room, 65x55;

Ladies' Reception Room, 40x40;

Reading Room, 46x40;

Committee Rooms,

and other general apartments, used in common by hotel patrons, all these rooms having other convenient entrances.

On Second Floor are

Ladies' Drawing Room, 51x40; Children's Dining Hall and Private Dining Rooms.

The rooms for guests are equally well finished and furnished, and arranged for use, either singly or in suites of two or more, they being so approached and connected that a suite of any number can be had, possessing

All the Advantages of a Private Dwelling.

All Outer Rooms have a Bay Window, and every room a Fire-place, a Clothes-closet, and Toilet Room, and to every two rooms there is a Bath Room.

The total number of rooms in the PALACE, above the Garden Floor, exclusively for the use of guests—most of them being 20 feet square, and none of less size than 16x16—are 755.

Each floor has its Own Annunciator

with its special service in constant attendance, also a tube receptacle for

Letters for Post-Office, all leading to the main Letter Box in the General Office. There is a

Pneumatic Dispatch Tube,

by which messages and parcels can be instantaneously sent to any point on the different floors.

All the rooms have approach or entrance from the Arcades, furnished by the existence of the three Inner Courts, thereby giving to all interior rooms

Fresh Air and Sunlight.

The system of Ventilation applied to all the rooms, including the Bath and Toilet rooms, is perfect, there being a total number of 2,042 Ventilating tubes opening outward on the roof of the Hotel; each one coming from some particular room or closet. And for each room there is special provision made to admit the fresh air.

Upon the Garden Floor of the Palace there is an Arcade Promenade, 12 feet wide, with entrances to all of the stores under the Hotel, each one having a Show Window upon the Promenade.

The Palace Hotel is Elegantly Furnished, equally well upon every floor, and is complete in extent of detail as the comfort of patrons can desire. In addition to being Fire-proof, as mentioned, the arrangement for protection against fire is perfect, the Hotel having

Four Artesian Wells,

a Reservoir under the garden plot—holding capacity being 630,000 gallons—Steam Engines, Steam Pumps, and a supply of 14,570 feet of hose, which, with

Fire Apparatus Complete, is located at convenient stations upon each floor of the building.

In every room and passageway throughout the Hotel there is a thermostatic bulb, by which an extra degree of heat existing will be announced at the general office, upon a dial, stating the exact locality, making thereby a Complete Fire Alarm Guard.

The Watchman's Tell-tale Indicator, in the office, faithfully reports the intervals of the watchman upon his regular rounds, both day and night, and in other respects indicate the method and manner of his attention to duty.

There are Five Elevators and Seven Stairways leading from Garden Floor to the Upper Story. There is a Solid Iron Staircase, enclosed by brick, which leads from basement to upper story, having openings only on each floor.

The Elevators are worked by Hydraulic Power, and while the most desirable speed is attained they are securely safe and noiseless, and in every way free from all the objections that have heretofore prevailed with similar conveyances.

The Salubrious and Equable Character of the Climate,

(the thermometer at San Francisco, in Summer, ranging from 60 to 70 degrees Fahrenheit, and in Winter from 50 to 60 degrees,) extend such an inviting welcome to travellers, that every endeavor has been made to have the PALACE fully harmonize with it in its attractive features, by combining the comforts and conveniences of American and European hotels, with the greatly prized luxuries of Oriental life.
